

FULL-TIME 12-MONTH LECTURER POSITION
Job #104633
Family and Human Development
Beginning July 2022

The T. Denny Sanford School of Social and Family Dynamics (SSFD) (<https://thesanfordschool.asu.edu/>) invites applications for multiple full-time annual-contract 12-month non-tenure eligible teaching positions as Lecturer in the Family and Human Development program beginning July 1, 2022. ASU is a dynamic, internationally recognized institution dedicated to interdisciplinary collaborations, rethinking university education, and integrating excellence in research, teaching, and service. ASU serves more than 150,000 students on five campuses in the Phoenix metropolitan area, one of the fastest growing urban centers in the nation, and globally through ASU Online. It has been ranked first in the US for innovation (<https://www.asu.edu/about>) for each of the last seven years and number one for sustainability for the second year in a row. SSFD values cultural and intellectual diversity, and continually strives to foster a welcoming and inclusive environment. We are especially interested in applicants who can strengthen the diversity of the academic community.

SSFD hosts two undergraduate majors (Family and Human Development and Sociology) with approximately 1,800 undergraduates enrolled in online, in-person, or hybrid degree programs. SSFD also offers online terminal masters' programs in Family and Human Development and Sociology with approximately 300 students enrolled, as well as an on-campus master's degree in Marriage and Family Therapy and robust PhD programs in Family and Human Development and Sociology. All of the programs in SSFD are designed to train students to think critically, to be accountable to the communities with which they engage, and to utilize a full repertoire of theoretical approaches and innovative research methods, with training in quantitative and qualitative approaches. We engage diverse approaches to study society, institutions, communities, families, and individuals.

The successful candidate will teach large online and/or face-to-face undergraduate classes and graduate courses in the online terminal MS program in Family and Human Development. Areas of specialization are open but prefer candidates who can teach a variety of Family and Human Development courses such as Human Development through the Lifespan, Aging and Life course, Human Sexuality, and Research Methods.

A full-time teaching load includes four classes each fall and spring semester (either 15-week courses and/or 7.5-week courses) and two in the summer (6-week courses). We welcome applicants whose scholarship engages critical paradigms, new perspectives, and/or original ideas, and employ cutting-edge methodologies or innovative teaching techniques. The successful candidate also has service obligations commensurate with teaching assignment.

Salary: up to $68,000

Minimum Qualifications

PhD candidacy or equivalent in Family and Human Development or a related field at the time of appointment

Evidence of successful teaching at the college level

Demonstrated success in meeting the needs of diverse student populations and/or diverse communities

Desired Qualifications

PhD in Family and Human Development or a related field at the time of appointment

Ability to teach a broad range of courses in sociology including required and elective courses

Experience with instructional tools such as Canvas

Applications will be accepted through Interfolio, at <http://apply.interfolio.com/104633> To apply, please send the following materials through Interfolio that includes: (1) letter describing your qualifications and fit with this position; (2) a curriculum vitae; (3) a teaching statement and evidence of successful teaching such as teaching evaluations, samples of instructional materials; (4) two letters of recommendation, and (5) a statement addressing how your contributions to diversity and inclusion will advance ASU's commitment to inclusive excellence. Complete applications will be reviewed beginning May 6, 2022 if not filled, applications may be considered every week thereafter until the search is closed.

The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences values our cultural and intellectual diversity and continually strives to foster a welcoming and inclusive environment. We are especially interested in applicants who can strengthen the diversity of the academic community. Learn more about what The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences has to offer by visiting <https://thecollege.asu.edu/faculty>

A background check is required for employment. Arizona State University is a VEVRAA Federal Contractor and an Equal Opportunity/Affirmative Action Employer. All qualified applicants will receive consideration for employment without regard to race, color, religion, sex, sexual orientation, gender identity, national origin, disability, protected veteran status, or any other basis protected by law. (See <https://www.asu.edu/aad/manuals/acd/acd401.html> and <https://www.asu.edu/titleIX/>).

In compliance with federal law, ASU prepares an annual report on campus security and fire safety programs and resources. ASU's Annual Security and Fire Safety Report is available online at <https://www.asu.edu/police/PDFs/ASUClery-Report.pdf> You may request a hard copy of the report by contacting the ASU Police Department at 480-965-3456.

COVID-19 Vaccination - Arizona State University is a federal contractor and subject to federal regulations which may require you to produce a record of a COVID-19 vaccination. For questions about medical or religious accommodations, please visit the Office of Diversity, Equity and Inclusion's webpage