FULL-TIME 12-MONTH LECTURER POSITION
Job #
FAMILY SCIENCES/SOCIOLOGY
Beginning May 2018

The T. Denny Sanford School of Social and Family Dynamics (http://thesanfordschool.org) invites applications for a full-time annual-contract 12-month teaching position as Lecturer beginning May 2018. The successful candidate will be expected to teach large face-to-face undergraduate classes in family sciences and sociology. Classes to be covered include (but are not limited to) parenting, human development, family/marital relationships, research methods, introductory sociology, race and ethnicity, etc. This person will teach up to 5 classes each fall and spring semester and 2 online classes in the summer (6-week intervals). Possibilities also exist for working with graduate students in terminal Master’s programs. For this position, the successful candidate must have a Masters degree by time of appointment in child/family sciences, sociology, psychology, or a related field, and have evidence of successful teaching at the college level. Preference will be given to candidates who have a PhD in a related area, who are familiar with ASU instructional procedures and software, who are able to teach a diversity of courses, who have experience with teaching large numbers of students, and have demonstrated success meeting the needs of diverse student populations and/or reaching out to diverse communities.

Initial due date of complete applications is February 15, 2018; if not filled, review of complete applications will continue every week thereafter until the search is closed. To apply, please send the following materials electronically to Dr. Bethany Van Vleet at sanfordteaching@gmail.com: (1) a cover letter describing your qualifications and fit with this position, as well as contact information (including email addresses) for two references; (2) a curriculum vitae, and that includes a complete publication and funding record; (3) samples of instructional materials; and (4) a teaching statement (not to exceed two pages). Background check is required for employment.
