Summer Undergraduate Program for Engaging with Research (SUPER)

About SUPER:

SUPER is a 6-week summer research fellowship program that focuses on engaging students from underrepresented groups (broadly defined) in social science research, and exploring graduate programs or careers involving research.

Benefits:

- Participate in a research project alongside Sanford School faculty and postdoctoral research fellows.
- Get support to develop your career goals.
- Find out about careers in social science where you can apply research skills.
- Engage in a series of workshops, seminars, professional development trainings, and learn about diversity-related issues in research.
- Receive a $2,400 stipend.

Eligibility:

- Majoring or minoring in Family and Human Development or Sociology
- Able to commit to full participation in a 6-week program (20 hours per week) during Summer session A

Apply:

- Visit our website at thesanfordschool.asu.edu/disi/super
- Application deadline is March 2, 2020

SUPER is a program sponsored by the Sanford School Diversity and Inclusion Science Initiative.

thesanfordschool.asu.edu/disi

For more information, please contact:
Janniqua Dawkins at jadawkin@asu.edu